WORDS WORTH READING:

"It's not true I had nothing on, I had the radio on." — Marilyn Monroe

Famous people are deceptive. Deep down, they're just regular people. Like Larry King. We've been friends for forty years. He's one of the few guys I know who's really famous. One minute he's talking to the president on his cell phone, and then the next minute he's saying to me, 'Do you think we ought to give the waiter another dollar?' -- Don Rickles

THE OLD ARMADILLO:

Listen, a job is a job, we all need to find away to put bread on the table don't we? To make a long story short I'm a telemarketer, that's my job and that's what I do. It's not a job everyone appreciates, but it's a job I enjoy and am proud of. The other day I called a house and a real nice lady answered the phone, she was really helpful and friendly, she was the type of lady that helps a telemarketer get through a long day.

After some pleasantries I asked if Mr. Smith was in, "I'm sorry", she answered "I'm afraid he doesn't live here anymore."

Now that was a real disappointment being that she was a nice lady and all, but I took it all in a stride, "I'm sorry to hear that ma'am. Do you happen to have his new number."

"Sure thing!" The woman cheerfully replied, listing off his new number.

I hung up the phone and quickly called the new number and was surprised to hear a recording.

"Thank you for calling Green Acres Cemetery..."
